IN DAYS OF OLD

When the Simplest Melody Held
Its Sway

APOTHEOSIZED LAST NIGHT

At the Arion Hall by Father Kemp's Singers, Appearing in "Ye Olde Folke's Concerto," for the Benefit of the City Hospital—Old Tunes and Tunes by Our Forebears Exquisitely Rendered—The Bazaar Closes To-night with the Immortal Dramatic Symphony, "A Box of Monkeys."

Father Kemp's company of singers in "Ye Olde Folke's Concerto" at the Arion hall last evening, as one of the features of the bazaar being held this week for the benefit of the City Hospital, was not only a success in costuming, but in many instances the soloists and chorus scored distinct artistic triumphs. The atmosphere of the fathers of our forebears was there, and the delicate perfume of the virtues of the maids and matrons of those far distant days was almost perceptible as "Old Hundred," "Lenox" and other treasures of the repertoire of the days of ancient melody swelled into a grand chorus from the throats of the youthful singers who dissembled in features and dress last night.

The only criticism that can be offered by the impressionable reporter is, that it was a pity that so much loveliness of feature and form should be distinguished—even for so good a cause.

Mr. Paris R. Myers, the director, most unqualifiedly deserves his meed of praise for the excellent effects he brought out of the multitude of voices that harmonized under the swing of his baton. Of course there were most effective by-plays in some of the numbers that were calculated to be reminiscent of "other days and other years;" but, in the more serious pieces; that is, the selections that could not be mutilated by the veriest murderer of melody, the effect was quite sympathetic upon the audience. It was not a ballad concert, but a resurrection of musical memories to many in the audience. It was not, strictly speaking, an "Old Folke's Concerto," but the interpretation of old tunes and melodies by fresh and tuneful voices—and the singing was so good that a repetition would be thoroughly enjoyable. As "there are no friends like the old friends," the same truism may be applied to the fidelity of those harmonies that will forever stir the vibrant chords of the heart.

The significant lines in the song of "Grandma's Advice" and the coquettish expression of Miss Fanny Wheat were enough to call for a repetition. Miss Mamie Grubb led the next song with the chorus falling over themselves to get in at the finish. It was not dignified enough for Miss Grubb's voice. It was kind in her to subordinate herself.

The solo on an ancient piano that had been dug out of the stock of F. W. Baumer & Co., as fingered by Miss Flora H. Pollack, was a gem in its way. It was said that the instrument was a century old, and no one present would have dared question the authenticity of a 17th trade mark on it. The musical centenarian must have been traded for a jewehar. The wonderful thing was how Miss Pollack obtained so many chords out of such a harpsichord.

The rollicking song of "Consin Jedidiah," by Mrs. A. H. Harding, with chorus, was thoroughly enjoyed. Mr. H. W. Hines came down on the programme for a "Tune," and when he appeared as an old man, the very antithesis of his well-known vigor and pulchritude, he could not help but make a decided hit when he sang "Mitt" Barlow's famous song, "I am Just as Young as I Used to Be." It was one of the most acceptable numbers on the programme. Mrs. Adele E. Hupp also distinguished herself in the "Yankee Skelchride," and met with cordial approbation in her duet with Mr. Paris R. Myers.

"Annie Laurie" was given with most sympathetic expression by Mrs. Mary Bankard Wagner; but so impersonal was the effect that each man in the audience (staid, of course,) thought of a different name, but all were in tune with "Annie Laurie."

The entire programme as rendered was a gem in the way of an entertainment out of the banal ruts. Many of the costumes were exceedingly rich, and appear to have been exhumed out of chests whose lids had been closed by the far-removed relatives of the wearers.

Mrs. Alice A. Flick as pianist, and Mr. Fred Meyer, with the cello, were very satisfactory in accompanying the singers.

The supper last evening was most liberally patronized, and every article provided was topsome. This is the last day of entertainment that has been in progress for this most worthy charity. The City Hospital has not cleared half a million dollars; indeed a much more modest sum might be suggested. The institution is in need of all the help that can be extended. To-day the usual lunch will be served at noon, consisting of the most palatable and appetizing dishes. And the supper, at the same hour as heretofore, will be on the table for discussion at the usual price.

This evening the laughable piece "A Box of Monkeys," will be given with a competent cast. After this performance a dance will take place for the benefit and enjoyment of the young folks who have contributed their time and talents to the success of the week's entertainment.

A MINER MURDERED

At Bergholz, in Jefferson County, by a Fellow Workman—Taken to Steubenville and Committed to Jail.

A murder was committed at Bergholz, a mining town in the northwestern part of Jefferson county, Ohio, yesterday morning at the mines which have been the scene of other murderous affrays. John Brown, who drove entries in the "X" mine, met death from a blow of a pick point wielded by John Kellogg, a miner. The murder occurred about six o'clock, just as the men were getting ready to begin work, and grew out of a quarrel over an empty car. Kellogg wanted the car which was nearest his entry, as he had coal he wanted to send out, but Brown would not give it to him. A scuffle of short duration took place, which ended by Kellogg grabbing his pick and slaking it in Brown's left leg above his knee. The pick point penetrated an artery. Brown bled to death in about ten minutes after he was struck. Kellogg has been working there about seven years and is married and has a wife and one child. Brown was about forty years old and a widower, his wife being dead about two months; he had worked about Bergholz the past six years.

According to Kellogg, he wanted to take the car, which was standing in his entry with his tools in it, farther up the entry and unload the tools and bring it back. Brown refused to have the car moved and Kellogg had taken some of the tools out, and as he reached for another pick Brown struck him and grabbed the pick which was in Kellogg's hand and tried to jab the point into his side. In swinging it around Kellogg thinks he may have shoved it into Brown's leg. He says he did not intend to do so, and did not know Brown was hurt until the latter cried out. Kellogg helped carry Brown out and told some one to go for a doctor. He afterward went to see Brown after the latter was hauled home dead. Kellogg gave himself up and no one seems to regret the occurrence more than the prisoner does. Kellogg did not want to fight when Brown struck at him, and he called for his "buddy" to stop Brown.

Kellogg was taken to Steubenville and lodged in jail by Constable Ham Saltsman and later taken before Squire Trainer, where Constable Saltsman made an affidavit charging him with murder in the first degree. Kellogg was held not guilty, waived a preliminary examination and was held to await the action of the grand jury.

The murderer is uncouth in appearance. He is about the same age as Brown. Kellogg's tale is pitiful and shows that the murder was accidental and probably in self-defense.

Tailors to Organize.
To-night the journeyman tailors of this city will meet at the rooms of the Ohio Valley Trades and Labor Assembly, where they will be addressed by Mr. E. S. Christophersen, of Rockford, Ill., the general organizer of the Tailors' Union. The purpose of the meeting is to form a union of the tailors of this city and vicinity.

Dr. Anna Shaw to Lecture.
Few women and few men are so well equipped for public speaking as the Rev. Anna H. Shaw. Miss Shaw will lecture at the Y. M. C. A. next Tuesday evening on the "New Man." Seats will be reserved at the Association building at 9 o'clock Saturday morning. The lecture is instructive and highly entertaining. It sparkles with wit and is full of common sense.

The Modern Mother
Has found that her little ones are improved more by the pleasant Syrup of Figs, when in need of the laxative effect of a gentle remedy than by any other, and that it is more acceptable to them. Children enjoy it and it benefits them. The true remedy, Syrup of Figs, is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Company only.

Florence Crittenton Rescue Home.
The fourth reception will be given at the Rescue Home, No. 71 Seventeenth Street, on Friday, December 11, during the afternoon and evening, to which the public is cordially invited.

We are indeed grateful for past favors and ask that they be continued. We will receive anything that is useful in a home, food or clothing. We have some pretty pieces of fancy work, which the inmates have made that will be offered for sale.

The home has been a shelter for seventy-six women and girls since it was opened, twenty months ago. It is the effort to help some one that God blesses.

The spirit of Crittenton work is purely charitable and cares for those for whom no one cares.
